“ The 20 years or so I knew David had plenty of business, because that's how I got to meet him. Far more important than deal points, however, was David as a person. He was kind and considerate. He was always thinking of his family. He spoke so well of Bobbi. He was a joy to know. He was also always thinking of how to "make something happen". He hated the word "No". He always was looking for a positive way forward through so many challenges, health and family. I will miss him.
