“ As a little girl, I always looked forward to Uncle Jack stopping by the house on a Saturday morning to visit. I wanted a big brother, so I called him my "Brother Uncle Jack". I would cry so hard when he tried to explain that he couldn't be my brother AND my uncle. He had the best laugh in the world. He often babysat me when I stayed with my grandmother. To keep me in line, he used to pick up the phone and pretend to call the police to report my bad behavior. I would hang on to his leg crying & begging him to hang up the phone. He would laugh so hard because he knew he had me convinced that the police was on the line. He will forever be in my heart & memory as the best uncle ever.
